

PRESIDENT'S LEADERSHIP AWARD

Ms. Jane P. Chwick '82

Jane Chwick is a former partner of Goldman Sachs, where she had a thirty-year career in technology, including most recently as the co-chief operating officer of the technology division. As co-COO she was responsible for financial and business planning, setting the technical strategy and the management of an 8,000-person organization within the firm. While at Goldman, she served on many governance committees—including the firm's finance committee, the firm-wide new activity committee, and the technology risk committee—and she was co-chair of the technology division operating committee.

Currently Ms. Chwick serves on a number of boards for corporate and not-for-profit organizations, including Voya Financial, MarketAxess, People's United Bank, ThoughtWorks, and Essent Group. She is the chair of the technology, innovation, and operations committee at Voya Financial and at Essent, and is chair of the risk committee at MarketAxess. In addition, she is on the executive board of trustees and is vice chair of the Queens College Foundation. She previously served on the boards of the Berkshire School and Girls Who Code.

Ms. Chwick earned an undergraduate degree in mathematics from Queens College and an MBA with a concentration in quantitative analysis from St. John's University.
